Location: On Centennial Ridge in Medicine Bow National Forest, approximately 2.3 miles (in a direct line) southwest of Centennial, Albany County, Wyoming

Date of Construction: c. 1924

Present Owner: United States Forest Service, Medicine Bow National Forest

Present Use: Abandoned

Significance: This log structure is associated with events that have made significant contributions to the broad patterns of our history, i.e., early 20th century mining for precious metals in Wyoming and the western United States. It is a small square log structure (6.5 feet) with no door or window openings, and is roofless. The logs are square notched and fastened with round spikes. The function of this structure is unknown.
